

XIX International Workshop on Chronic Lymphocytic Leukemia Industry-Supported Virtual Satellite Symposium Guidelines and Application

The virtual XIX International Workshop on Chronic Lymphocytic Leukemia (iwCLL) offers the opportunity for industry-supported virtual satellite symposia (ISS) to be held in conjunction with its biennial meeting. ISS play important roles in supporting the needs of iwCLL participants by offering additional educational opportunities. The iwCLL program committee will review all educational topics and proposed speakers. All ISS must be independent medical education programs (accreditation not required; no product theaters will be allowed). The iwCLL committee encourages speakers/faculty not part of the program agenda to be considered for the satellite symposium.

While all applications are considered, final approval is the decision of the iwCLL program committee.

iwCLL will not designate CME or CE credit for these programs. Those wishing to offer accredited education must obtain accreditation from a source other than iwCLL.

Applications must include the names of commercial interests, whether proposed or secured. Applications should be submitted to iwCLL@bioascend.com no later than 30 July 2021 to receive full consideration.

Please review the application instructions and rules and regulations carefully. The symposium must comply with iwCLL policies.

Applications for the 2021 meeting are due by 30 July 2021. Review and assignment are first come, first served. A $60,000 USD fee will be assessed for approved 60-minute slots.

The fee includes:

- 60-minute symposium slot where faculty and presentations (live Q&A, ARS, polling) are livestreamed (not prerecorded presentations) during the best available preferred time and date
 - Additional on-demand content can be submitted prior to the satellite symposium
 - This content will not be broadcast during the 60-minute live symposium and will be available as an additional resource to the livestreamed symposium
 - Audiovisual support of the livestreamed only (any additional audiovisual support will be billed directly to the provider/sponsor)
